DR. M. T. DILL, 77, BIGLER DENTIST, EXPIRES TODAY

Dr. Matthew T. Dill, 77, well-known dentist in Biglerville, died Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Warner Hospital from a heart condition. He had been admitted to the hospital four hours previous to his death.

Dr. Dill was born in Dillsburg, a son of the late Armstrong and Emma (Brecht) Dill. He received his degree in dentistry from the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, and started practice about 50 years ago in Huntingdon. For a number of years he resided in York Springs and later moved to Biglerville.

He was a member of the Gettysburg Presbyterian Church. His wife died in January, 1949.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. George Dill, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Joseph Gilmour, Wilmington, Del. and Mrs. Sidney Rippler, of near Philadelphia, and four sisters.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

MAKE PLANS TO TAKE PART IN IKE INAUGURAL

Preliminary plans for Adams County's participation in the inauguration of President Eisenhower January 20 at Washington were outlined Monday evening at a meeting held in the office of Republican County Chairman John H. Basehore, Baltimore St.

Between 300 and 600 countians have already evidenced a desire to attend the inaugural parade and activities, members of the group estimated Monday night.

Henry M. Scharf was designated by Chairman Basehore to check the possibility of running a special train over the Western Maryland to Washington, and was also scheduled to check potential eating places in the capital city.

Two Local Hunters Charged By Warden

Two Gettysburg hunters were sent notices today to appear within ten days before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore to answer to hunting violation charges filed by Leo Bushman, Gettysburg, state game protector for this area.

Jack Dubbs, Baltimore St., is charged with refusing to reveal identity and show his hunting license to a game protector. John Shaner, S. Washington St., was arrested for hunting after being denied a license.

Both alleged offenses were committed on November 29, according to the informations filed. Justice Basehore said Shaner had been arrested a year ago for illegal possession of deer meat.

ACHS IS GIVEN EARLY VOLUMES; SHEADS SPEAKS

Volumes of the writings of Sam Jonson and the Scotch philosopher, Thomas Reid, which once were in the private library of Judge David Wills and a number of which volumes bear the autograph of Thaddeus Stevens indicating they were once the property of the "father of the free school system," were presented to the Adams County Historical Society Tuesday evening by Schmucker Duncan, Epley Apts. Chambersburg St.

The presentations were among a number of others of unusual interest at the December meeting of the county historical group in their rooms in the court house basement.

Mr. Duncan, who said he had bought the books at the auction of Judge Wills' personal belongings, said he felt they were of interest and importance because they indicated a less well known side of Mr. Stevens' personality.

A copy of a commission to Adam Seth Enos Duncan, grandfather of Mr. Duncan, who was making the presentation, as a midshipman on the frigate "Constitution" better known as "Ool Ironsides" was given the society. The commission, dated 1810, sent young Duncan to New London, Conn., to report for duty. He is buried in Fiohr's Church Cemetery.

Other Accessions
Other accessions Tuesday evening included a centennial history of the Studebaker Company, which had its beginnings in Adams County, from Homer N. Young, an 1865 record book from Flatbush school system in Straban Twp. and a copy of his "Descendants of John Long" by Nicholas Heltzel of Straban Twp.; collection of old deeds from Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Jacobson, Gettysburg R. 4; a sale bill and 1801 deed from Miss Diehl of New Oxford, and more cigarmakers' records from Philip Wagaman of McSherrystown.

The guest speaker for the meeting was Lt. Col. J. M. Sheads, member of the society who recently returned from eight months' duty in Germany with the 7th Army. He talked on "Castle Tours in the American Zone of Germany." He described old castles in Bavaria, the leading tourist area; Hess and Wurtemberg-Baden.

He said he had made special inquiry for relatives there of folk in this area of German descent whose ancestors had come from those parts of Germany. He said he located Barbehnns who are related to the local family by that name and said he detected family resemblances.

PUBLIC MEETING ON C-D PLANS HERE ON DEC. 18

Officials of the various governmental units in Adams County and the general public will gather Thursday, December 18, at the Court House here to discuss the county's problems of Civil Defense.

William G. Weaver, coordinator of Civil Defense for the county, today was sending out letters to all boards of township supervisors, borough councils, burgesses, and the county commissioners, school authorities, public utility managers, medical authorities, Red Cross officials, ground observer corps personnel, fire department and auxiliary police department heads and the regular local and State police inviting them to attend the session.

At the same time he extended a general invitation to the public to be present for the meeting at which it is hoped further plans can be developed to have the county in a state of readiness should any disaster strike.

State C-D Director Coming
At the meeting Richard Gertsell, director of Civil Defense for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, will tell of the state-wide arrangements for defense, and will tell of the duties of the local authorities and people in readying themselves for any eventuality.

Noting that the 25 fire departments in the county are already briefed for their part in defense, and that a radio network tying together the entire county is in process of being established, Weaver said the "big things still to be arranged are a program for the other phases of civil defense such as clothing, feeding the housing of refugees from stricken areas, and for our own people, if bombs should fall here."

Township and borough officials are being especially invited in order to outline to them their responsibilities towards Civil Defense, Weaver said. Among their activities is the authorizing of auxiliary police, a duty the fire police of the county stand ready to accept.

The Red Cross is also particularly invited, Weaver said, because the Red Cross already has number of committees set up for disaster relief including housing and feeding.

12 FRATS ADOPT ESTONIAN BOY

The Inter-Fraternity Council of Gettysburg College has "adopted" a nine-year-old Estonian youngster, Andres Kuusk, whose father was drafted into the German Army in 1944 and has never been heard from since and whose mother has been an invalid with a broken back for years.

"Adoption" proceedings were arranged through an organization known as "Foster Parents Plan for War Children Inc.," whose American headquarters are in New York City. The 12 fraternities at the college contribute $180, which takes care of the youth for an entire year.

Andres' father, according to Alfred R. Marks Jr., president of the Inter-Fraternity Council, was vice director of the Tartu-Estonia Bank when the Germans swept through his country. He was seized as a replacement in the German Army, sent to the eastern front, and was reported missing in September, 1944.

The other members of the family spent some time in German internment camps and refugee enclosures, and escaped during the Soviet advance. A truck in which they were fleeing with other refugees went over a cliff. Andres' grandparents, an aunt and an uncle and his cousin were killed. His mother was permanently crippled with a broken back.

Andres now lives near his mother in a town in Sweden and goes to a Lutheran school.

Rummage Sale Is Boosting Band Fund

The first money-raising project for the new uniform fund for the Gettysburg High School Band is being conducted Friday and Saturday by the Ways and Means Committee of the Gettysburg Parent Teacher Association in the form of a white elephant and rummage sale in the Presbyterian Church basement.

Children are bringing donations to the schools this week and will continue to do so until Thursday noon when the articles for sale will be collected from the school buildings and taken to the church. Articles for sale may be taken to the church Thursday afternoon.

All proceeds from the sale have been pledged to the $5,000 band uniform fund.

FAIRFIELD LIONS WILL DECORATE TOWN FOR XMAS

Fairfield Lions at their meeting Tuesday evening made plans for the most elaborate holiday street decorations in that community's history and set up a list of cash prizes for homes and business places who do the best job of decorating for Christmas.

Stuart Sites Jr. is chairman of the committee in charge of the street decorations. His group has been authorized to buy additional lights and other decorations to add to the materials used in 1951. Each year the Lions add to their stock of street decorations so that the town is being better decorated year by year.

Cash prizes totaling $30 are being offered the six best decorated homes in the community by the Lions (Please Turn to Page 6)

Two Vehicles Are Damaged On Tuesday

Two automobiles were damaged Tuesday at 11:10 a.m. on the Emmitsburg Rd. seven and a half miles south of Gettysburg.

State police of the Gettysburg substation said Clyde L. Lovewell, 34, of Newfane, N. Y., was driving his automobile and house trailer south when the trailer jackknifed. He ran off the road on the left side.

John Bruno Jacoy, 22, of Arlington, Va., was traveling north. Police said his automobile ran off the left side and struck a boulder.

No one was injured. Damage to the Lovewell vehicles was estimated at $50 and to Jacoy's car at $150.

Reserve Officers To Hear Lt. Col. Sheads

Lt. Col. Jacob M. Sheads will be the speaker at a monthly meeting of the Adams County Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association, to be held Monday night at 8 p.m. in the borough council chambers in the fire engine house. Col. Sheads, who returned recently from service in Germany, will give an informal talk on that country.

Our Two Party System

By Leighton C. Taylor

With a self-governing people political parties are inevitable, and, shall we say, necessary. This for the reason that no party, however pure its motives at first, will govern a country long without becoming arrogant and corrupt unless it has a rival of almost equal strength and power watching its every move, and ever ready to wrest from it the reins of government.

With the Revolution came the initial division into parties. Historically, our two-party system emerged during that period—the Tories or Loyalists versus the Revolutionists. This particular two-party system ended automatically with the Revolution. It is interesting to note at this point that many of the Tories or Loyalists, who opposed the Revolution, fought on the side of the British. They comprised approximately one-third of the population of the Colonies, and at the close of the Revolution large numbers of them emigrated to Canada. Those who remained accepted perforce the result of the Revolution, and, for the time being, party divisions ceased to exist.

Pair Pleads Guilty On Liquor Charges

Thomas Luther Brown, 40, of 215 W. High St., and George Walker Breckenridge, 43, of Hanover R. 3, pleaded guilty Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore to charges of illegal possession and transportation of liquor, and were held for sentence court. They renewed bail of $500 each.

Brown and Breckenridge were arrested on November 23 on W. Middle St. after a three-mile chase by state police of the Gettysburg substation, who alleged that they threw two jars containing "moonshine" from their automobile just before they were apprehended. The charges were filed by the State Liquor Control Board.

DRAMA GROUP GIVES 2ND ACT OF ELIOT PLAY

"The Search for Faith," the second act of a play by T. S. Eliot portraying "the soul's striving for faith and Christianity," was presented by the First Drama Sextette, Gettysburg College dramatic group, at a meeting of the Woman's Sub-League of Gettysburg College Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Christ Lutheran Church.

The students, introduced by Miss Louis Brown, included Gene Kline, Ruth Davis, Alice Carr, Betty Jean Stockwell, Dan Orvack and Arthur Trudeau, director of the group.

Group singing of the carol, "It Came Upon The Midnight Clear" opened the meeting. Miss Ruth Koser was the piano accompanist and devotions were led by Mrs. Parker Wagnild who read the Christmas story from St. Luke's Gospel. Mrs. Frederick Tilberg and Mrs. E. E. Ziegler read the secretary's and treasurer's reports.

The registrar reported that Dr. and Mrs. Robert Fortenbaugh have presented the name of their granddaughter, Jean Louise Fortenbaugh, for the Book of Jewels. Dr. and Mrs. Walter C. Langsam have added the name of Mrs. Langsam's mother, Mrs. Alexander Ross Gardiner, to the Golden Book of Honor.

Present New Members
The auditors' committee including Mrs. Glenn Weiland and Mrs. Kenneth Smoke, reported the books in order. Mrs. Conway S. Williams membership chairman, announced the following new members presented by herself: Miss Mildred A. Miller, Mrs. Heinz Langerhans, and Mrs. Josephine Rion; the name of Mrs. Robert Weaver presented by Mrs. Granville R. Schultz; Mrs. Reginald W. Deitz, Mrs. Herbert Schmidt and Mrs. Jacob W. Heikkinen, presented by Mrs. Ralph D. Heim; and Mrs. Edward Zinkand presented by Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh.

Mrs. Henry M. Scharf, promotional chairman, announced that the league had made $117.64 at a rummage sale held this fall. Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. Clair Donley were co-chairmen of the affair. Mrs. Scharf also announced plans for a surprise calendar party to be held February 3 with Mrs. Earl Bowen as the chairman. A Pennsylvania Dutch program will be held by the group April 14.

GOP ELECTION COMMITTEE HAS $374 BALANCE

The Adams County Republican Committee spent $6,339.84 during the November election campaign, according to the financial report filed today by Party Treasurer Clarence C. Smith with the county election board.

Income, including a balance of $68.83 from the previous campaign, totalled $6,714.19 leaving a balance of $374.35 at the end of the political season.

Most of the money received during the campaign came from the State Republican Finance Committee, a total of $4,500.

The amount returned from the State Finance Committee represented the county's share of approximately $8,500 donated by countians through the Adams County Republican Finance Committee, Smith said. The county had originally been given a quota of $7,500 to raise under the finance program, and exceeded that amount by nearly $1,000, due to the great interest of countians in the Eisenhower campaign. John D. Teeter was chairman of the committee which raised the fund.

Most of the expense locally was for advertising and for payment of the 125 committeemen and others who provided cars and services during the campaign and on election day.

3 Candidates Donate
Among the 39 individuals who gave direct to the Adams County Republican committee, and whose contributions are listed on the expense account, are S. Walter Stauffer, successful candidate for Congress, who donated $750; State Senator Donald P. McPherson who gave $600 and Francis Worley, successful candidate for assemblyman, who gave $100.

Filed at the same time as the Adams County Republican Committee finance report was a similar report by the Franklin County Republican Committee. The account was filed here, as well as in Franklin County, because of the senatorial district arrangement.

Stenger Diehl, Franklin County Republican Committee treasurer, reported that the committee there had a total income of $22,177.49 and spent $10,729.34 leaving a balance of $11,448.15. Expenditures included $4,852 to committee members and $2,413 to non-committee members. Donations during the campaign totalled $19,266. The committee started the campaign with a balance of $2,876.49.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The National Safety Council today announced a nationwide Christmas savings plan to stop accidents.

"If every American will join this savings plan before the Christmas holidays, a real yuletide bonus—human life—will be paid," said Ned H. Dearborn, Council president.

The campaign has been joined by more than 160 national organizations, and by city and state public officials and civic leaders. They will unite in creating an awareness of the special holiday hazards, and will enlist voluntary cooperation from every American to hold accidents to a minimum this Christmas.

The year-end holiday season is the most dangerous period of the year, Mr. Dearborn said, and accidents annually mar the celebration in thousands of homes. Traffic accident deaths on both Christmas Eve and Christmas Day are about twice as high as the annual daily average.

This year, with the holiday consisting of four days for many persons, the toll could be even higher than the 351 traffic deaths reported during the four-day Christmas weekend last year, Mr. Dearborn warned.

"Travel is especially heavy over long holidays, which encourage traditional family get-togethers even when the members must drive considerable distance," he said. "The festive spirit of the season, plus the normal winter hazards of bad weather, slippery roads and longer periods of darkness (Continued on Page 14)

"WRONG-WAY" DRIVER
A ten-day notice was sent today by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder to William F. Knup, Philadelphia, charging him with driving the wrong way around Lincoln Square. Knup backed out of a parking space in the southwest segment of the square, and drove down Chambersburg St. without going around the circle, borough police, who filed the charge, said.

Hold Services For Meningitis Victim

The funeral of Ronald Eugene Wagaman, eight-year-old son of Harris and Pauline Byers Wagaman, New Oxford R. 2, who died Tuesday morning in the Warner Hospital of meningitis, will be held Thursday, with private services at 1:30 p.m. at the Pottersburg Funeral Home, York Springs. The Rev. Amos Meyers will officiate, and interment will be in Mummet's Meeting House Cemetery, East Berlin.

The Wagaman boy was born in Reading Twp. and attended the second grade of the New Oxford school. He was in school Monday, but complained of pains when he returned home. He retired, but at 1 a.m. was found on the floor in his bedroom and was taken to the hospital.

Besides his parents, he leaves four brothers, Harris Jr., Donald Leroy, Dennis Lee and Robert Allen, all at home; five sisters, Mrs. Shirley Taylor, York Springs; Mrs. Janet Banker, Phyllis, Jean and Shelby, all at home; his paternal grandfather, Ambrose Wagaman, New Oxford, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Byers, Hanover.

30 MEN SENT TO HARRISBURG FOR PHYSICALS

Twenty-seven countians and three college students were sent to Harrisburg this morning by the Adams County Selective Service Board for pre-induction physical examinations.

The leader of the group was Bryant W. Wortz, Gettysburg, and the assistant leader Ronald T. Heiges, Biglerville.

Two of the college students were from Gettysburg College, George W. LaRosa Jr., Jamaica, N. Y., and John Brennan, Lansdowne, Pa., while the third was a Mt. St. Mary's student, Thomas A. Zeak, Altoona, Pa.

Others in the contingent were: William F. Swope, Emmitsburg; Richard F. Conrad, McSherrystown; Raymond E. Gebhart Jr., Gettysburg R. D.; Howard R. Clapper, Aspers R. D.; Edwin L. Steinberger, Gettysburg; Charles W. Wishard, York Springs R. D.; Fred N. Baker, Abbottstown; Donald A. Group, Gardners R. D.; George E. Rickrode, Littlestown R. D.; John D. D.; Ernest L. Shelleman Jr., East Berlin R. D.; William M. Durboraw, Gettysburg R. D.

The next contingent to enter the service is scheduled to leave December 9.

CHIEF OPERATOR AT NEW OXFORD DIES SUDDENLY

Miss Mary Bernice Weaver, 38, of 109 Hanover St., New Oxford, chief telephone operator in New Oxford for a number of years, died Tuesday night at 9:30 o'clock at the Harrisburg City Hospital where she had been admitted as a patient ten days ago.

A daughter of the late James R. Weaver and Mrs. Mary Felt Weaver, she is survived by her mother, with whom she resided, and the following brothers and sisters, Frederick A. Weaver, Hanover; Miss Marie Weaver, at home; Mrs. George Devine, New Oxford; a twin sister, Mrs. George Stock, Hershey; George J. Weaver, Hanover and Miss Mary Agnes Weaver, at home.

A brother, William G. Weaver, who served as commander of the local National Guard unit for some time as a captain, after having been an officer in World War II, and who volunteered for duty as a corporal in Korea, was killed in action in Korea about a year ago. A graduate of New Oxford High School, she was a member of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary Catholic Church, New Oxford, and of the sodality of that church.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

BURGLARS ROB FOUR BUSINESS PLACES HERE; DOG SAVES 5TH

Burglars broke into four Gettysburg business places between 12:30 and 7 o'clock this morning and attempted to enter a fifth, but were driven off by a watch dog, borough police reported today.

State Policeman David K. James, at borough police request, joined Borough Officer Raymond Meneses in the investigation of the wave of burglaries in which the break-and-enter artists secured several hundred dollars in money and articles stolen from the Unger Motors, Steinwehr Ave., and Reel's Tire Shop, Lincolnway Esso Service Station, and Lincolnway Diner, all on Buford Ave.

The burglars also attempted to enter the Atlantic Service Station on Buford Ave., but apparently were driven off by the watchdog there.

Get $100 In Change
Officer Meneses said the burglars broke a rear window at the Unger Motors, entered the building and removed a money box containing about $100 in change, bills and silver currency. The money box was found by the burglars, who disturbed nothing else, despite the fact that it was in a concealed place.

At Reel's tire shop they pushed up a rear window, pulled a cigarette machine from the wall and broke into the vending apparatus, removing about two cartons of cigarettes and an estimated $5 in cash from the machine. They found a safe open at Reel's, but after rifling through the papers in the safe took nothing there.

After breaking a rear window to gain entrance to the Lincolnway Esso Service Station, the burglars removed two cases of oil, an electric razor, a cigar box holding about $25 in pennies and a cigar box containing about $25 in nickels.

Similar Tactics Used
At Lincolnway Diner, also owned by the proprietor of Lincolnway Service Station, Edward Rogan, the burglars raised a rear window, entered the diner, stole three boxes of cigars and attempted to open a cigar box (Please Turn to Page 2)

"RETIREMENT SCHOLARSHIPS" MADE AVAILABLE

The Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College, at its annual meeting at the Union League of Philadelphia this week, established "Retirement Scholarships" which permit any retired resident of Adams County, who wishes to familiarize himself with recent developments and brush up on any courses given at the college, to attend several courses without fee or without credit by applying for registration to the dean of admissions.

John M. Yovicsin, who was appointed head coach of football for a period of one year, was re-elected to that position without time limit.

The board also voted to revise a policy on scholarship awards according to the recommendations of the faculty committee on scholarships headed by Dr. W. C. Waltemyer.

The board also decided to increase the amount of existing scholarships by $10,000.

In order to improve the heating conditions at the college, it was voted to install a

S. S. GROUP TO GIVE OPERETTA

The junior department of Trinity Evangelical Reformed Church School will present its second annual operetta Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the parish hall under the direction of the Superintendent William R. Swisher Sr. The operetta is entitled "The Miser's Dream." It is in two acts and tells the story of a miser who had a dream which made him "loosen up his heart and share the wealth which he possessed."

The cast of characters includes: 'Miser' Money Bags, Dawson Heck; Dame Majorie, his servant, Ann Harner; Mother Goose, Cecelia Yoder; Christmas Fairy, Margaret Teeter; Witch, Louise Collins; Fairy Generosity, Nancy Carbaugh; Elf Selfishness, Richard Dreas; Elf Unkindness, John Millard; Butcher Boy, Bobby Zehn. The Cat Chorus will include Jack and Eddie Zeigler, Philip Smith, Kenneth Hull, Leonard Miller, Barton Olinger. The Elves Chorus are Lucille Miller, Grace Heck, Emily Warren, Joanne Keisling, Carolyn Hull.

Dora Mae Snyder is the pianist. The costumes were made by Mrs. William Swisher. The stage hands will be William Swisher Jr. and Henry Fox. There will be a concert by the Blue and Gray Band before the performance and during the intermission. The church school class of Mrs. Swisher will have candy and nuts on sale before and after the operetta.

XMAS PROGRAM IS HELD BY WMS

A Christmas feature marked the concluding program of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church at a meeting of the organization Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Clyde R. Brown, E. High St. The society will merge with the Women's Service Guild January 1 and will be known as the Women's Christian Fellowship. The first meeting of the new group will be held Wednesday evening, January 14, at 6:15 o'clock when a covered dish supper will be held at the church. All women of the church are invited.

Mrs. Ross Shuman, president, presided at the session Monday. Devotions were led by Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel. Miss Mary Farha, Lebanon, Near East, discussed Christmas customs in her country. She was introduced by Mrs. Walter H. Danforth, program chairman.

Two solos were sung by Mrs. Robert Yingling who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Lois Kadel. Mrs. Yingling's selections were "Come to the Stable" by O'Hara, and "Sleep, My Jesu" by Bartlett.

Following the business session, tea was served by the following hostesses: Mrs. Brown, Mrs. C. H. Heldt, Mrs. Hugh C. McIlhenny, Mrs. Elfa Chapman, Mrs. Robert Ditchburn and Mrs. Sara W. Doll.

CLUB DIRECTORS TO BE ELECTED

Members of a new board of directors of the Gettysburg Country Club will be chosen at a business meeting of club members which will follow a covered dish supper at the club house Thursday night.

The club was organized in mid 1948 and formerly held its year on July 1. Last August the directors voted to extend the year to December 31 and in the future have the club year extend from January 1 to December 31.

Directors elected Thursday night will thus take office January 1, and elect new officers at the January 6 meeting of the board.

The supper is for adult members of the club, no guests, and will be held at 6:30 p.m. The club will furnish ham, rolls and coffee. Members should bring a covered dish and table service.

Cards will follow the business meeting. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. John D. Teeter, chairman; Mrs. Bruce N. Wolff, Mrs. Joseph E. Codori, Mrs. R. D. Wickerham, Dr. Fred B. Bryson and Robert A. Codori.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

$12,000 Is Raised at Rededication:
With large crowds present at both the morning and evening services Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church, Benderside, was re-dedicated Sunday.

The Rev. O. D. Coble, now serving his fourth year as pastor, said the offerings on Sunday amounted to approximately $12,000, about $300 above the total indebtedness incurred by the extensive improvement to the church, and the installation of a new pipe organ.

The church was re-dedicated at the morning service, when the Rev.
Dr. H. C. Alleman occupied the pulpit. At the evening service the new pipe organ was dedicated. The Rev. Dr. Harvey Hoover preached at the evening service.

Preceding both the morning and evening services, Mrs. Glee Baker Curran, of Gettysburg, gave short recitals on the new organ.

Sells Apartments: Mrs. Ida Martin

Miss Hilda M. DeGroot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry DeGroot, Kings-dale, and Leslie E. Null, son of Mr.
and Mrs. James F. Null, Emmitsburg, Maryland, were married Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the parsonage of St. John's Lutheran church Littlestown, by the Rev. J. I. Hum-mer.

The bridegroom is employed in the plumbing establishment of J. T. Hay and Son, Emmitsburg. The couple will reside in Emmitsburg.

Sells Fruit Farm: The Citizens' Trust Company, of Gettysburg sold the Brough farm in Huntingdon township, containing 10 acres, to W.
M. Lott, who will take possession February 1. Transfer was made by
C. A. Williams.

Sells Property: Miss Mary Leister sold her home on Stevens Street to Roy Yeagy. Mr. Yeagy has taken possession and Miss Leister has moved to Hanover. Transfer was made by C. A. Williams.

Seminary Faculty Members Are Dinner Guests of Aberly: Dr. John Aberly and Mrs. Aberly entertained the faculty of the seminary with their wives at dinner Thursday night at their home on Seminary Avenue.

Today's Talk

SETTING ASIDE AMUSING MEMORIES

The most important task in life is not the mere setting aside of money for the proverbial rainy day, but amusing memories to give us spiritual joy while the world about us may be one of fear and confusion. In my reading
I came across a line said to have been uttered by a French king. He said: "Let fate do its worst I have dined!"

Nothing has added more joy and serenity to my later years than the books and small works of art
I purchased in the years now gone — many of these acquired by quite a deal of sacrifice. Now they give, not only memories but mental and spiritual nourishment.
Even the physical body reacts to these and a sense of beauty and satisfaction blooms, like fresh flowers, all about us.

The glory and reward of long experience are both doubly enhanced by the memories we have stored up and set aside to give us comfort and a measure of continent for the silver-headed years of our lives. How dull these years would be without our blessed memories!

Even regrets are blotted out by the memories we treasure, especially if we preserve only those that have meant happiness to us or to those whom we have tried to make happy. We can keep running back to the exciting days of youth in our mind and become freshened in spirit for whatever tasks remain to us. Along the way our failures fog out while our successes prod us to achieve better ones.

The smile of every child, the kindness and appreciative word of a friend help to give pronoun-ment to memories that have for long been etched upon the mind or tucked away within the heart.
These memories of ours are secure from all theft or loss. They are self-insured. The more of them we have the richer we are. There are no tomorrows in today, but thank God we have a stream of yesterdays!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "With What You Have."

COLD CURE
When as a child I caught a cold
My mother did as grandma told.
With flannel wet my throat she wound
And tied a stocking that around.
The "cold pack method" that was called
By which the croup might be forestalled.

She rubbed with camphorated oil
My chest—'twas love's devoted toil—
Until from coughing I was free
The scent of camphor went with me.
But if the cold would not let loose
She smeared me with the grease of goose.

"Old-fashioned cures" the doctors say,
But I am still on earth today.
Regardless of the camphor smell
The fact is that I did get well.
What mother used in days of old Must many times have cured a cold.

But now there is a method new,
They do with "shots" what oil would do.
Instead of rubbing goose grease
in
They pump the cure beneath the skin.
To stop a cold they make you strip,
Then jab a needle in your hip.

SEEK FUGITIVES
IN W. VIRGINIA

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—West Virginia state police were pressing the search today for five dangerous escaped convicts from Pennsylvania after nabbing one fugitive in a Western Union office here last night.

James Milk, 25, of Duquesne, Pa., was unnamed when arrested as he came in to pick up money he expected to get by wire from home.

Police identified him as one of the five convicts from Pittsburgh's Western State Penitentiary who held a family of five as prisoners for two days.

Out of the 10 knife-wielding convicts who broke out of prison Sunday, five were still at large today.
One of them was not with the quintet who holed up from Sunday morning until early yesterday at the home of Emile Lerby in the little mining town of Rea, Pa.

Pennsylvania state police said the convicts took two cars, two guns, knives and clothes from the Lerby place and sped toward West Virginia. An automobile later found abandoned in Wheeling, W. Va., talked from the Lerbys.

U. S.-BRITAIN
TRADE TREATY
BEING STUDIED

LONDON (AP)—Leaders of the British family of nations examined an Australian proposal today for a unique United States-Commonwealth treaty of trade and friendship aimed at making it easier for the rich dollar and the poor pound to live together.

Australian Prime Minister Robert
G. Menzies was reliably reported to have suggested the treaty at Monday's session of the nine-nation Commonwealth Premiers' Conference. Informed sources said the proposal would cover:

1. Commonwealth pledges to ease controls on the movement of money, especially those hampering U. S. investors in the British nations from taking back to America in dollars their capital and earnings.
2. Cutting "imperial preference" to speeding up arrangements to eliminate double taxation which in some Commonwealth countries leaves dollar investors liable to pay taxes both to that nation and to their own governments.
3. Gradual extension of the convertibility of the pound so that eventually a person with pounds could swap them freely for any other foreign currency.
4. Cast-iron arrangements for removing or scaling down the Commonwealth system of imperial preferences and United States tariff quotas. Imperial preference is a system of "buying British"
which has grown up as a means of protecting Commonwealth goods and industries.

Our Two Party System

By Leighton C. Taylor

amendments should be added—the so-called Bill of Rights—was the opposition of the Anti-Federalists overcome and the issue settled. The Anti-Federalist party then fell to pieces and the Federalists took over, electing Washington President without opposition. But in the early days of Washington's administration a question of the utmost importance came up for solution: Should the Constitution be strictly construed according to the letter of the document, or should broad construction of the instrument obtain.

People Are Divided

It was this important question that really divided the people into two distinct and diametrically opposed political parties. By way of simplification, those who stood for strict construction were the proponents of states' rights and decentralization, while the opposition favored giving the general government powers larger than the letter of the Constitution provided.

With this development the Federalists became the party of broad construction with Alexander Hamilton as their leader, while Thomas Jefferson headed the opposition which became known as the Democratic-Republican party ("Republican" as listed then is not to be confused with the Republican party of today).

So much for the origin of the two-party system. Many parties have come and gone since, and concerning their rise and fall, I refer my readers to their High School and College text books.

Coming down to date, and particularly prior to the recent presidential campaign, many thoughtful people throughout this broad land were beginning to despair of our present day two-party system; and a lot of us, at first blush, were inclined to agree that there were sufficient grounds for being disturbed.
But, on the other hand, the question arose as to what we would have in its place.

Need Two Party System

We could, say, have totalitarianism. Under that system one party is sufficient. Those who disagree need no party because they are either in concentration camps, prison or exile.

Perhaps some would want a multiple party system—twelve or thirteen parties—sometimes as many as 20—as in France. But when one considers all the confusion we have here with just two major parties we can easily rule that suggestion out.

When all is said and done those who are apprehensive will, as your correspondent sees it, agree that the two-party system in a government such as ours is inevitable and necessary.

"Party divisions," said Edmund Burke, "whether on the whole opera-ating for good or evil, are things inseparable from free government."
Before proceeding further, maybe tirely corrupt.

Defines Political Party

The best definition of a political party which the writer has been able to find, may be pertinent:

"A political party is a voluntary organization of individuals or groups of individuals which,
as its most distinctive function nominates certain of its leaders as candidates for public office, supporting them in their efforts to obtain the same; also as a rule it advocates certain principles and policies as superior to all others for the general conduct of government, holding that the most immediate method of securing the realization of these principles and policies is the election of its nominees."

No stronger endorsement of our two-party system is needed than the conduct and result of the recent presidential campaign. One political party in control of the government for two decades, and our experience with its administration, was ample refutation of any one-party or no-party theory.

Coming to power during a severe economic crisis, under the leadership of an unusual personality, the opposition was so completely crushed that it was unable to function even as a critical "watchdog." The twenty-year tenure just ending sub-stantiates the following assertion quoted from the first paragraph of this article:

"No party, however pure its motives at first, will govern a country long without becoming arrogant and corrupt unless it has a rival of almost equal strength and power watching its every move, and ever ready to wrest from it the reins of government."

New Leader Emerges

So almost self-sure that it was unbeatable had the party in power become that the opposition, shall we say, was beginning to acquire a sort of inferiority complex, and many persons were fearful of its survival.
But fortunately, at the most critical juncture in the opposition's history, a popular and dynamic leader was available to carry it to victory; not only to lead it to victory, but to revitalize and re-establish our two-party system on a firm and secure foundation.

Moreover, the entire world, which had watched the leaders of our two parties assail each other's political

Need Opposition

In retrospect, however, we can see clearly that the American system of government implied and demanded two organized parties—an administration and an opposition—for successful operation; in fact every country in the modern world, upon attaining a considerable degree of self-government, has produced political parties. It is the natural, logical method of managing public affairs in any nation where the people have acquired the right to rule.

Parties have an influence in determining the happiness and history of a people. Party activities, accomplishments, and bunders contribute to such happiness and history. Parties are given character and direction by social and economic forces and conditions. Party leaders are carried along by the currents of the time in which they live, affected by traditions, and influenced by accepted constitutional and economic theories. The interplay of party forces in the shaping of events in a nation's history presents an interesting subject of study, while dramatic incidents and striking personalities enliven the scene. No party is entirely unselfish, and no party is ever completely in the wrong or en-positions only a few weeks ago in language that sounded as if one city were not big enough to hold them both, now beholds an opposite side of the American character. Antagonists before the verdict of the people, they are now protagonists for all the people, as demonstrated by the recent White House meeting.

Most of us, of course, are acquainted with the abuses prevalent in politics and the two-party system;
they have been with us always. Many of these abuses could be cited for correction, but lack of space permits the mention of only one:—a low level often reached in the conduct of campaigns.

Issues Invariably Lost

The ideal election campaign is supposed to educate the electorate with respect to the issues involved, but, as a rule, just the opposite is true. Misrepresentations, and bitter, unjustified denunciations by many candidates and their supporters of one another are nauseating to the average voter. Because of this the issues of the campaign become confused or lost sight of. Is it any wonder that self-respecting citizens refuse to stand for public office, or even exercise their right of franchise?

No citizen of a representative government objects to valid, candid, and vigorous criticism when it is justified and deserved. The objection is to falsification and distortion for the sake of votes and party success.

Education and enlightenment, generally, in the field of politics and political parties, would go far toward correcting this evil, but it would necessarily be a slow process.

Washington, Jefferson, Noah Webster, James Sullivan, of Massachusetts, and Horace Mann were notable among our early statesmen and educators in strongly urging "training

When she sang this plaintive for citizenship and participation in public affairs." They declared that such training was imperative if a Republican form of government was to endure. Such a government implies that there shall be an educated, well informed, alert citizenry;

anything else forebodes mediocrity and failure.

If the day ever comes when a free government such as ours fails, it will be due, in the writer's opinion, to the weakness of human nature, untrained and undisciplined for the proper conduct of free institutions.

BIRTHDAYS, DEER AND CHRISTMAS IN NEWS FROM YORK SPRINGS

Two local families celebrating Thanksgiving with large family dinners were the Ivan Taylors, York Springs, and the John Chronisters, York Springs R. 2. The Taylors served a 29-pound turkey and the Chronisters two 17-pound turkeys.

Those attending the Taylor party were Harry Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Taylor, Billy, Charlotte, Kenton, Philip and David Taylor, Margaret and Helen Culp, Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grove, York Springs; Mrs. Grace Culp and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hall, Round Brook, N. J.

The Chronister guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gembe and two children, Donna and Charles Jr., York Springs R. 2; Luther Chronister and daughter, Mrs. Donald Hershey, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Crowl, and son, Buddie, Mr. and Mrs. Marlette Gotwalt and son, Marlette Jr., all of York; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Smith, Marshall Jr., John, Beverly, Mrs. Dale Grove, Paul Davis and Elene Laughlin, all of Dillsburg.

Scout Dinner Saturday
Instead of a house-to-house canvass for the funds for the annual budget, the Girl Scouts of York Springs are having a ham dinner at the York Springs Fire Hall on Saturday evening from 4 to 8. The money will be used for the troop treasury.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. May have left for the Southwestern United States to spend the winter. They took with them their large trailer in which they expect to live during their trip.

Mrs. George Bushey, York Springs R. 1, has been discharged from the Carlisle Hospital where she had been a patient suffering with a broken leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Slaybaugh, Grand Forks, N. D., will return to their home next week after visiting with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, York Springs.

Hunters Report Success
A number of deer were reported killed by local hunters. Among the successful hunters were William Shank, York Springs R. 2, who got an 8-point buck the first day at Trumps Hill between York Springs and Mt. Holly; Ralph Golden, Richard Weigle, and the George Guise and Claude Smith boys.

Among local men who are at the Ono Club in Tioga County are Clay Snyder, George Stambaugh, Russell Grove, Jack Starry, Hillary Kennedy, Harold Kemper, Merle Miller, Clair Bower, Glenn Kemper and Elmer and Horner Cashman. Fred Stough and Dale Strayer are at Snowshoe, Penna.

ners R. D., announce the recent birth of a daughter at the Carlisle Hospital. She has been named Mary Louise.

Grove Hess, owner-manager of the Dillsburg Farm Supply, is spending several days hunting in Centre County.

First Home Game Tonight

Boyd Gerber, Dillsburg, has gone on a hunting trip to Cameron County. Other Dillsburg men hunting deer are Lawrence Evans, James Evans, Howard Wolf, Wayne and Harold Wolf and Edward Hershey, who are in Tioga County. They were accompanied by William Harbold, York Springs R. 1, and Rev. N. L. Bortner, York Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Smith were guests of Capt. and Mrs. Charles G. Hershey Jr., Falls Church, Va., on Thanksgiving. The dinner was given in honor of their 27th wedding anniversary and Charles G. Hershey's birthday anniversary. He also was a house guest.

The York Springs High School basketball team will play its first home game of the season this evening at the York Springs Fire Hall. Their opponents will be Hagerstown Catholic High. Both girls' and boys' teams will play. Two games have already been played this season, both of which were lost, one with the Hagerstown school at Hagerstown and the other with the Scotland Boys' School at Scotland.

Plan Christmas Cantata
The Senior High Chorus of the York Springs High School is preparing a Christmas Cantata to be presented later. The date will be announced later. The elementary school Christmas program will be presented at the December meeting of the Parent Teachers Association on December 15.

Mrs. Taylor, Biglerville R. D., will be the substitute teacher of the home economics department of the York Springs High School.

The Springs Hill on Route 94, just south of York Springs, is one of the bad spots in the county when the roads are icy in the winter and Tuesday morning was no exception. From 6 to 9 a.m., when cinders were put on the hill, 14 trucks including oil tankers and auto transit carriers were tied up from 20 minutes to three hours.

East Berlin

EAST BERLIN—Miss Jacqueline J. Thoman, Hanover, granddaughter of Paul E. Jacobs, East Berlin, who is in her freshman year at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., preparing for missionary work, recently entertained her mother, Mrs. John S.

Thoman, when Parents' Day was marked at the campus.

The Gleaners Class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday School conducted a banquet-meeting Saturday evening at the parish hall of the Abbottstown Lutheran church. The teacher is William H. Hildebrand.

Mrs. Farmer Harlacher, near Red Run church, has been elected president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the York Farm Bureau.

William H. Hildebrand, R. 3, has returned after a trip to the Boston home office of the John Hancock Company where he took special instruction in insurance methods, etc.

Mrs. Elmer M. Gruver is assisting at the local telephone office during the convalescence of the chief operator Mrs. Herman H. Wolf who returned from the York hospital where she recently submitted to an operation.

Capt. Harold E. Spangler, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Spangler, who is serving in Korea with the air corps, has sent to his wife, formerly Miss Gladys E. Hodgson, York, a number of photographs taken in Asiatic countries where he has been stationed. Mrs. Spangler permitted the use of the pictures as slides to be shown at a recent meeting at Red Run church of which the Hodgson family are active members.

Mrs. Gordon B. Wolf, West York, formerly Joyce Wiley, has been convalescing after a major operation at a York hospital.

Mrs. H. M. Bricker R. 1, was able to go out last week for the first time since late October when she was knocked down by the barn door at their farm, in a high wind.

December 5 and 6 have been set aside for parishioners of Paradise Catholic parish as First Friday and First Saturday for this month. Mass on First Friday will be at the Rectory chapel at 6:45 a.m. The Saturday Mass, in honor of Our Lady of Fatima, will also be at the chapel, at 7 a.m. with the Rev. Francis L. Mignot celebrant both days. After the First Saturday Mass, parishioners expect to spend the usual quarter-hour in private recitation of the Rosary for an improvement in world conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Linebaugh and son, near Red Run church, who suffered injuries when they met with an auto accident in early autumn are now reported much improved.

An offering for Lutheran World Action was received at Trinity Lutheran church on Sunday which also marked the annual Homecoming exercises at which a former pastor, the Rev. Frederick Sternat, Swissvale, was guest minister.

Young people of Trinity Lutheran church families who have reached the age of 11 and have not yet been confirmed into church membership will meet each Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the church hereafter for catechetical instruction until the Easter season when a chosen group of students will be formed into a confirmation class.

Christmas Shopping Daze

Christmas being only a whoop and a holler off, we decided to spy on the town merchants and see what they had to offer in the way of gifts. Got hold of "Jill" Hoffman to give us the woman's angle—and off we went.

First stop was HARLACHER'S JEWELRY AND GIFT SHOP, where we were greeted by genial Don Harlacher, the proprietor of the joint.

Over in the corner, Don's wife was busy wrapping Christmas lay-aways for the prudent folk who have been doing their buying early. She's a right smart gift wrapper, and I'd be tempted to buy my gifts there just to get her to do a beautiful job on the wrapping. The store is separated into two sections, one housing the jewelry and the other, the new luggage and glassware dept. Golly, some of the luggage was so pretty, I felt like taking a trip. . . . Nicest thing we saw in the store was a gorgeous Hamilton wrist watch, with a clear, easy-to-read dial, and 17 jewels. Case can be had in either gold filled or solid gold. Don informed us that they (Hamilton) do not make gold plate cases, which are inferior to the above mentioned ones. Hamilton is, of course, America's leading watch. Prices start at $50. . . . Drop in and take a look.—Tell Don we sent you. . . .

Next stop on the program was KNAUB-CLEMENS FURNITURE STORE. Baird Knaub, who was busy being a new father when we got there, took time out from his diapering and showed us around. We were dazzled by the array of fine furniture, which is his regular line—and then some new things which should really interest the kids. There was all sorts of juvenile furniture including children's desks, table and chair sets, and tiny rocking chairs for the small fry. . . . Speaking of rockers, we were impressed with a beautiful easy chair, made by Universal. This was a solid mahogany rocker, with a real foam rubber seat. This one was for Dad, and sells for only $69.50 and comes in six delicious flavors. It was the kind of a chair a real he-man likes to get for a gift. Kinda rugged and real comfortable. . . . If yer old man complains about your furniture, keep him satisfied with one of these swell rockers, for his very own.

DILLSBURG FARM SUPPLY was only a short walk, so we stopped in to say "Hello" to Grove Hess. . . . who was out! Spoke to ace salesman, Earl Robson, who gave us the low down on the all new 16 cubic ft. International Home Freezer. . . . All I gotta say is if you're in the market for a freezer, here's a rugged 16 cu. footer for the price of an 11! It's a beauty, made by the world's leading manufacturer of home freezers. That means you get an extra five feet of storage space at no extra cost to you. . . . Those of you who don't have one yet, are, certainly missing the boat, if you're trying to save money in these times. . . .

COCKLIN BROS. was our next objective, where we had an appointment with Ken to look at a few things. . . . Jim and Ken Cocklin were busy waiting on people, but after a few moments they gave Jill and me a cheery "hello" and told us to look around. Noticed that they do quite a job with floor coverings. . . . Jim is a skilled workman when it comes to laying floor tile and linoleum. . . . Wandered over to the furniture dept. and came across a cedar chest. Kinda struck our eye cause it was not only a useful object, but a nice piece of furniture. This one is made by Lane, one of the foremost makers of cedar chests in the nation. It is guaranteed against moth damage by the maker, and features a factory pressure test. . . . That's to make sure the whole shebang fits tightly. . . . Sounds like a darn good deal for Mom at only $49.50. . . . I'll bet you'll want to see it.

Larry Evans of EVANS BROTHERS was real busy, too. That new store of theirs is the nuts! Was quite impressed with the whole set up. While there we noticed the greeting card display. . . . Now, they carry a greeting card for everything from New Year to National Soap Week. . . . Well, not really, but I'll bet if there is a Nat'l Soap Week, Larry's got a card to fit the occasion! Come of the Hall-mark cards we see advertised on television are right there on display, together with hundreds of others. Next time you're in the neighborhood, you oughta stock up on birthday cards, just to have a few around the house. Those anniversaries come around awfully quick too—if you have a card handy, it's no trouble at all to get them on the way and make someone's days just a little brighter!

Stopped at LEHMER'S for a couple gallons of gas—and were we fooled! Say, that place is just loaded to the rafters with toys. . . . Inside the garage is a small store, where Mrs. Marietta Lehmer presides over the dolls, carriages, trucks, trains, fire engines, toy guns, and a host of other bright and colorful toys too numerous to mention. . . . All that's missing is Santa himself. Gee, if you want to see your kid's face light up like a new lamp—take him to Lehmer's to look at the wonderful toy display!

Norm and Les Wiley were working hard at WILEY BROS. unpacking all the fine GE products you will see on display at their exclusive GE store. I didn't realize there were so many different appliances all made by the same Co. . . . Here's a few: Radios, washers, television sets, refrigerators, freezers and stoves. We were particularly interested in a combination clock-radio. Yep, that's right—it's a radio with a combined clock that can be set to wake you up, put you to sleep, turn on your coffee in the a.m., or turn on your favorite soap opera! Comes in a couple of colors too. . . . Makes a terrific gift for "the guy who's got everything. . . ."

GRIMES & STUM is only a stone's throw from there, and Harry is always a nice fellow to converse with, so we visited him. He was knee deep in overshoes, rubbers and winter clothing. . . . Might just mention here that if you need overshoes or galoshes, don't do what I did last year. . . . I waited till it snowed—then got caught in the darndest foot rush you ever saw. . . . everybody trying to get overshoes at the same time. Be smart and get yours now! And be sure to look at the swell Woolrich woolens that they feature for gifts for the whole family.

Not many towns the size of Dillsburg can boast of two hardware stores, but we got 'em! They're both stocked with the finest selection of tools for the hobbyist and the work-in-gang, that you'll ever see. SHAMMY'S store has a full line of appliances and I noticed that all around the place were plastic kitchen utensils of all types and description. He even had a plastic yard stick for the fairer sex. . . . all kinds of dishes, unbreakable, serviceable, and mighty pretty. "Most colorful array of housewares I've ever seen," says "Jill" Hoffman. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Paxton, Wellsville, with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Kroft and daughter, Dianne, who have been residing with them, recently entertained at a birthday celebration for Mr. Kroft's mother, brother and sister, Mrs. Elmer Kroft, Lloyd and Elsie-Mae Kroft, Dillsburg, all of whom have November birthdays. With Mrs. Kroft's other son and daughters, Mary, Ruth, and Larry, others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kroft, June, Mae and Darlene Kroft, Charmaine and Francis Paxton, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Henne, and Paul and Edward Henne.

Large birthday cakes decorated the table, and a feature of the entertainment was the presentation of gifts to the three guests of honor.

The Rev. Percy D. Brown, pastor of Red Mount Evangelical United Brethren church, has announced there will be no worship service there Sunday, December 7, although Sunday school is at 9:30 a.m. as usual.

A musicale, including a wide variety of solos, duets, and larger vocal groups, was presented at the Wells-ville Evangelical United Brethren church Sunday evening for the congregation and general public, with the Willing Workers Bible class of the Sunday school in charge.

Clarence C. Erb, York, formerly of Dillsburg and a former student at the high school there, left Monday for the Great Lakes Training Station, Illinois, having entered the navy. He was married during November to Miss Barbara Chubb, who remains at her father's home in York.

Ladies Night On Dec. 16

E. H. Newman was made chairman of a committee to arrange a Christ-mas party for the children of the community. The date for the affair is yet to be selected.

The Lions voted $10 to the Fair-field Union Cemetery Association.

President John J. Reindollar who presided at the session which was held at the Lutheran Parish House, announced plans for a Ladies' Night and special program at the next meeting of the club on December 16 in the parish hall.

The club accepted an invitation for the Lions and their ladies to attend a Christmas party planned by the Fairfield Girl Scout troop committee and leaders for December 12 in the community hall.

The program for the Lions' meet-ing was a motion picture film on "Hunting Moose in Alaska."

REUTHER SEEN AS CHOICE FOR CIO PRESIDENCY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Forces opposing Walter P. Reuther's apparently successful drive to win the CIO presidency pledged anew today against giving up without a convention fight.

Reuther seemed assured of sufficient votes to win any open convention showdown, but the group of CIO unions backing 64-year-old Allen S. Haywood, now the CIO's executive vice president, refused to quit.

The maneuvering for the CIO presidency continued as the convention turned into a memorial session for the late Philip Murray, the CIO president whose sudden death on Nov. 9 touched off the scramble for his job.

To Vote Tomorrow Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for president, was the featured speaker scheduled for the memorial session this afternoon.

Despite protests from the Haywood camp against any chances for resolving the CIO leadership scrap without an open convention rollcall, it still was regarded possible that an agreement could be reached with Reuther granting concessions in return for Haywood's bowing out.

Convention voting on new officers is scheduled for tomorrow.

FARM CALENDAR

Hens Like Alfalfa—High-quality leafy alfalfa hay is a valuable feed for hens chiefly because it supplies vitamin A, says P. H. Leuschner, Penn State extension poultry specialist. It provides other ingredients, too, and is a roughage that hens need. It keeps the hens busy picking at something, thus aiding to some extent in controlling cannibalism.

Poison Rats—Warfarin has proved to be one of the most effective of the rat poisons, reports E. J. Udine, Penn State extension entomologist. Mix the concentrated powder with corn meal and oatmeal. Place the bait where the rats run and protect it from other animals. Refill the bait stations as needed and solve the rat problem.

Drainage Needed—Check the drainage of coldframes which have been used for growing plants for several years, suggests Robert Fletcher, Penn State extension vegetable specialist. If needed, chisel or plow soil under coldframes about 15 inches deep.

Keep Wool Clean—Do not use high racks for feeding hay to sheep, cautions Thomas King, Penn State extension livestock specialist. Chaff and seeds fall from high racks on the sheep and get into the fleeces, thus reducing the market value of the wool next spring.

Clean Garden Tools—The 1952 garden season is past, but garden tools will be used again next spring. Clean, protect, and properly store these tools, urges James O. Dutt, Penn State extension garden specialist. Put all tools in good condition for use.

Mulch Perennials—Most perennial flowers need only a thin protective mulch, preferably of the straw or hay type, reminds A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist.

Apply Mulch—As soon as the ground has thoroughly frozen, apply a mulch 3 or 4 inches deep around the base of newly planted shrubs, suggests A. O. Rasmussen, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist. The mulch can be well-rotted sawdust, peat moss, leaves, ground corn cobs, peanut hulls, tobacco stems, salt hay, or buckwheat hulls.

Birdfoot Trefoil—Farmers are becoming more and more interested in birdfoot trefoil and how to grow it. James Eakin, Penn State extension agronomist, explains it is a matter of fertilizing well, inoculating heavily, sowing the seed shallowly, and keeping down the competition from the nurse crop and weeds.

Care for Machinery—One way to cut down farm costs is to take good care of farm machinery, reminds Penn State extension agricultural engineers. Some new machines and repair parts are hard to get, and those you can buy are high-priced. Make farm equipment last just as long as you can.

Feed Available—Harry Kaufman, Penn State extension poultry specialist, thinks that Pennsylvania poultrymen are fortunate in having almost equal access to corn, wheat, and oats over a period of years. Barley and buckwheat also are generally available.

Check Heating System—Every heating system should have a thorough checkup because of the fire hazards which always go along with a heating system, declares Harold Brannaka, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.

Prepare Sash—Winter is the time to repair and paint the coldframe and hotbed sash, says James Dutt, Penn State extension vegetable specialist. Be careful in handling the glass.

News Of Interest To Upper Communities Of County

Final Plans Arranged For Biggest Christmas Parade At Biglerville Thursday

Final plans for the annual Christmas parade at Biglerville, scheduled to be the largest in the four years the procession has been held, were announced today by the committee in charge.

A total of $310 will be awarded in connection with the Yuletide procession in the Upper Adams community Thursday evening. The parade is scheduled to start at 7:15 o'clock.

Ralph Shetter will be marshal, with Donald Shetter as assistant marshal. Information concerning the different floats and bands will be announced over a loud speaker while the parade proceeds to keep everyone informed of sponsorship and make-up of the various floats, marching units, etc.

Among the marching units scheduled to take part are the New Oxford Boy Scouts, the ROTC Drill team of Gettysburg College, the Carlisle Red Men, the Arendtsville Boy Scouts, the Gettysburg Women of the Moose, the Biglerville Brownie Scouts, Gettysburg Boy Scouts and the Biglerville Kitchenettes. The Kitchenettes will not be competing for the prizes to be awarded the marching units, the committee said.

To Award Silver Dollars Twenty-five silver dollars will be awarded in the children's division of the parade. The prizes will be given for the prettiest, most unusual, funniest, best decorated bicycle, best decorated tricycle, best decorated child and pet, and best decorated child with wagon. Children up to 12 years of age will be eligible for participation in the group. Mrs. B. G. Walter, who is in charge of the section, said today. Youngsters competing will not have to register prior to the parade.

Those who have so far announced their intention to enter floats include the Adams County Senior Extension club, the Biglerville Garden Club, the Cub Scouts of Biglerville, Intermediate Girl Scouts of Biglerville, and practically all of the classes in the junior and senior high school at Biglerville.

The Upper Adams Lions Club and the Biglerville Fire Company are also planning to enter floats, on a non-competitive basis.

List Commercial Floats Commercial floats will include the Biglerville Garage, O. C. Rice and Son, Schwartz's Service Station, C. H. Musselman, Wagner's Service Station, Rice, Trew and Rice, Wolff's Farm Supply and L. W. and M. S. Kleinfelter.

Those who wish to enter floats, marching groups, automobiles, vocal and instrumental musical groups should give the information to the chairman of that particular group or contact O. C. Rice Jr. by this evening so that the line of march can be arranged.

The Biglerville High School Band will donate its services and the Littlestown and York Springs High School bands will be sponsored by the Biglerville Bank and Fire Company.

All Report At 6:30 P.M. All participants should report by 6:30 o'clock. The Biglerville police-men will be on duty to direct groups to their proper places and handle traffic.

The Christmas lights will be turned on as the parade starts to move.

The program will begin immediately after the parade, on S. Main St., in front of Kleinfelter's Electrical Store. Ralph Sandoe, chairman, will preside. The program will include selections from the York Springs High School band, group singing of Christmas carols led by Professor Charles Yost and accompanied by the brass quartet from the Biglerville High School; scripture by the Rev. Laverne Rohrbach, prayer by the Rev. H. W. Sternat; band selections by the Littlestown High School band and benediction

New Oxford

NEW OXFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Becker, formerly of town, who have been living in Hanover, are now occupying their newly erected cottage near town. The house is on the Pine Run Road, just off Carlisle Pike.

The local Catholic Church will mark first Friday and first Saturday devotions with mass on Friday at 7:30 a.m., followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and special prayers. School children will be present in a body. After the first Saturday mass at 7 a.m., parishioners are urged to spend a quarter hour in private recitation of the Rosary in honor of Our Lady of Fatima for the intentions of world peace and social justice. The pastor, Rev. Philip J. Gergen, will be celebrant of the masses.

M. M. Sharrer was host during the week when the December meeting of the Pines Lutheran Church, New Chester, was conducted at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bothwell Jr., and son Bobby, Phoenixville, have returned home after being guests during the Thanksgiving season at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hemminger. Mr. Bothwell was recently discharged from the army after a long period of duty.

Frank Rightmire, son of Mrs. Floyd Rightmire, who has been in the service in Korea, has arrived in the United States. The young man's father died in the early autumn.

Miss Margaret Ann Moul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Moul, East Berlin, who has been spending some months in New York to further her voice education at the Juilliard School of Music, was soloist at a service Sunday at Emory Methodist Church. Miss Moul has now returned to New York after spending the Thanksgiving season with her family.

Miss Patty Keith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keith, west of town, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at her home. Miss Keith is now a student at the Oquett Center of Pennsylvania State College, Philadelphia.

The Rev. Philip J. Gergen, pastor of the local Catholic church, has named this group of Holy Name Society men to serve as ushers at the masses for the Sundays of the month: Francis Carbaugh Sr., Leo Poist, Nathaniel C. Miller, and Thomas D. O'Brien Sr. at the early mass and Arthur Weaver, Raphael H. Smith, Wilton R. Miller and John Paul Smith at the late mass.

Merrill A. Yohe had as a visitor over the Thanksgiving season his son, Merrill A. Yohe Jr., a freshman at Pennsylvania State College.

Local firemen will be reminded of their monthly meeting night the first Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. by the sounding of the fire siren. The first of these calls by siren will be this evening.

One of the earliest Christmas parties of the community took place Tuesday evening when this party followed the December meeting of the Mite Society of St. Paul's Reformed Church at the church social rooms. The hostess was Mrs. Robert Sowers.

HONG KONG (AP)—The French have beaten off in the last 72 hours a series of powerful Viet Minh attacks aimed at smashing the big base of French Union forces at Na San in Northwestern Indo China, it was learned here Tuesday.

Although the orbits of most planets can be approximately stated by a mathematical formula, the position where one planet is indicated by the formula is occupied by more than 1,000 asteroids or small planets.

TAFT'S BLAST MAY POINT TO TROUBLE AHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's sudden blast at President-elect Eisenhower for his choice of a secretary of labor to-day posed the possibility Eisenhower could face as rebellious a Congress as those President Truman had in recent years.

Congressmen were wondering whether the Ohio senator's bitter denunciation of Eisenhower's selection of Martin P. Durkin to the labor post—Taft called it "incredible"—meant:

1. All-out war between the forces of Eisenhower and Taft in the incoming Republican administration; or,

Frustration Ahead 2. A temporary, isolated blow-up growing out of Taft's tenderness toward his own Taft-Hartley labor relations law.

If the answer turns out to be "yes" to the first question, then the result could be the same frustration of Eisenhower's legislative program that has afflicted many of Truman's proposals.

Some Senate sources were of the opinion that Taft's next moves on taking over the Republican Senate majority leader post would show whether he really planned a showdown fight with Eisenhower.

Increasing Irritation If Taft moves openly to grab that key job, it would be highly significant, these sources agree. A president must consult regularly with the majority leader to put over his legislative program.

Senators at the Capitol were certain Taft has become increasingly irritated in the last 10 days at the trend of Eisenhower appointments. The Ohioan said he was asked to submit recommendations for Cabinet jobs and did so. But he has let it be known that not one of his first choices was selected.

ROTARY CONFERENCE CLOSSES

HARRISBURG (AP)—The annual conference of the 268th district of Rotary International ended yesterday with the yearly banquet and governor's ball. More than 600 delegates from 36 clubs in the Central Pennsylvania area attended the conference.

VIENNA (AP)—Rudolf Slansky and 10 other Czechoslovak Communist leaders convicted in the recent purge trial were executed early today, Prague radio announced.

The 11—once trusted servants of the Kremlin—were sentenced to death Nov. 27 as confessed traitors who admitted they led a "Zionist, Trotskyite" plot to overthrow their pro-Moscow government.

PRICE OF SPUDS WILL NOT DROP SAYS AG. BUREAU

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Agriculture Department said Tuesday that Pennsylvania housewives need not look for a drop in the price of potatoes in the near future.

A federal-state survey of spud prices around the state as of Nov. 15 showed an average price of $2.65 a bushel—or 10 cents more than a month before, the department said.

That price is 85 cents a bushel higher than at the same time last year. Spot surveys made by the department up to last Saturday show no downward change from the Nov. 15 price level.

But there is nothing to be alarmed about in the situation, the department said, adding that there is a ready explanation.

At this time of the year, an agriculture spokesman explained, potato prices normally rise in Pennsylvania.

Had Small Crop
It's the time when the spuds are past their period of flush supply and growers are storing their stocks away to meet demands later in the winter. Storage costs thus add to the general price levels.

Another immediate cause of high potato prices, it was explained, is the fact that the Keystone State this year harvested its smallest crop of spuds in 63 years. This was due to dry weather and to reduced planting.

The price problem is not just a local one, however, for Pennsylvania does not grow enough potatoes to supply its residents. Price factors in other states thus enter the picture.

Pennsylvania's summer and fall potato crop, even the stored variety, is gone by March. At this point spuds begin rolling in from the South. "New" potatoes, they're called.

Crux Of Situation
Therein lies the crux of the situation, the spokesman explained. The "new" potatoes from the Southland, beginning the potato year, determine the prices for the later northern varieties, including Pennsylvania.

Last winter the South had a poor growing year, particularly Florida, due to wet weather. As the price determinant, the Southland thus set a higher figure.

This and the operation of the law of supply and demand—when supply goes down, price goes up—brought about the present price levels, the spokesman said.

Britain To Build Steel And Aluminum Plants In Heart Of Tropical Africa In Few Years

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH
LONDON (AP)—Britain plans to plant two big new metal industries in the heart of tropical Africa where wild game still roams.

The plants—one to make steel, the other aluminum—are just about the heaviest of heavy industries.

Their construction would mark a big break in the traditional conception of African colonies as raw material and agricultural products supplying manufacturing industries concentrated in England.

Strong Arguments

But there are strong arguments in favor of the new policy. Britain is short of power—the basic requirement of all heavy industry.

And the colonies need new industries to pay for rising living standards.

Both the new industries look like a mixture of nationalized and private-enterprise deals.

The steel works project was announced by Gov. Sir Andrew Cohen of Uganda, British protectorate straddling the Equator where the river Nile is born in the crocodile-infested waters of Lake Victoria.

Broad Industrial Plans

Uganda already has tapped the latent energy of these tropical waters at the Nile source by building a big hydro-electric plant. A major cement industry has been set up, and plans are afoot for paper, fertilizer, glass and pottery industries.

But blast furnaces—almost symbols of heavy industry—are easily the most ambitious of Uganda's industrialization projects.

Cohen told the Uganda legislative council the government definitely has decided to go ahead with the steel industry, which will be based on local deposits of magnetite—an iron ore.

Details Withheld

He did not disclose many other essential details—such as the big task involved in providing the high grade coking coal needed for steel-making, the date of completion or the estimated annual output.

But he said the new industry will be run by the government-sponsored Uganda Development Corp.

The corporation probably will go into partnership with private companies, possibly some of the big steel-making concerns of Britain on a profit-sharing basis.

"It is intended to produce pig iron and steel sections in substantial quantities," Cohen told the Uganda legislators.

Plans For Volta

The words don't sound very dramatic—but against the backdrop of a territory that was still largely unexplored 50 years ago they are startling.

Across Africa, another river has been meandering through the tropics without seeing much change on its banks for thousands of years—the Volta in the Gold Coast, British West Africa. There are plans ready for the Volta, too.

Britain has been studying the idea of putting this river to work for years. This week the government announced it is appointing a commission to give final word on the possibility of setting up an aluminum plant there.

Like steel, aluminum production is a symbol of man's mastery over nature.

The refining of the ore needs vast electric currents carried along massive conductors that look like the steel girders used to build skyscrapers.

To generate this power, engineers and geologists who have examined the site suggest damming the Volta River to create a 2,000-square mile lake—perhaps the largest artificial waterways in the world. Then a hydro-electric plant would be built.

There is plenty of bauxite—aluminum ore—in the Gold Coast.

According to the official government statement, it would cost 144 million pounds ($403,200,000) to build the dam, hydro-electric station, aluminum smelter and an ancillary network of mines, roads, harbor installations, railroads and townships for workers.

Hippies Must Move

The British government, the Gold Coast government, and private enterprise in Britain, Canada and the Gold Coast would share the cost—and profits.

The actual aluminum smelter—estimated output 210,000 tons a year—would be run entirely by private enterprise.

No date has been set for a final decision, but the British government said it expects the preparatory commission to "report with all practicable speed." The preliminary report allows three years for building the smelter plant.

There thus is no immediate need for the African jungle's lazy hippo to move out—but this week's news should give them an awful warning their peaceful days may be numbered.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR VENEZUELA

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Venezuelan military leaders last night plumped Defense Minister Marcos Perez Jimenez into the nation's presidency shortly after an official announcement that the pro-government party was leading in returns from Sunday's elections for a constituent assembly.

Perez Jimenez said he would respect the election results and the Supreme Electoral Council said the government-backed Independent Electoral Front (FEI) was leading with 570,123 votes. It listed opposition ballots at 473,880 for the leftist Democratic Republican party (URD) and 138,003 for the Christian Socialists (COPEL). Just over two million persons were eligible to vote.

(This was considerably at variance with earlier unofficial returns Monday which showed the URD taking more than 50 per cent of the vote. Shortly after these returns developed, the government clamped on censorship and correspondents were unable to file other election dispatches until the announcement of Marcos Jimenez' elevation and of the official returns.)

WOULD RETURN DONOR'S BLOOD

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A blood transfusion technique now under experiment would return to a blood donor the red cells taken from his body.

Dr. Joseph Stokes Jr., physician in chief at Children's Hospital, said the process is based on the principle used to separate cream from milk. A centrifuge whirled the freshly drawn blood at tremendous speed separating the plasma from the blood. Then the blood is re-injected into the donor.

Stokes said the method will increase the supply of gamma globulin, the fraction of blood that protects against polio and some other diseases.

Return of the red blood cells may make possible as many as 50 transfusions a year from an individual instead of the five or six now believed to be the safe maximum.

Emmitsburg

The annual Christmas Charity Fair sponsored by the Children of Mary of Saint Joseph College, Emmitsburg, will be held Saturday in the Verdier building from 2 to 10 p.m. Alumnae and friends of the college are invited to attend. Proceeds of the fair will be used for the poor and needy.

Miss Helen Rupp, Baltimore, president of the Children of Mary, is general chairman of the fair.

One highlight will be the crowning of the queen of roses. Fairgoers will elect her by their votes and donations.

A wide variety of dolls, a new assortment of gift items, individualized with the college seal, books, religious articles and many other gifts will be available at the various booths. The fair will provide an opportunity for those attending to do Christmas shopping and at the same time help the less fortunate.

SELECTION OF DURKIN PUTS IKE IN GOOD SPOT

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—By appointing a labor leader, Martin P. Durkin, as secretary of labor, Gen. Eisenhower put himself in a nice position if Durkin's handling of the job goes sour.

He can say then: "I promised to be fair to labor. I did what neither Roosevelt nor Truman did in 20 years: I put a labor leader in the top labor job."

"I leaned over backwards to be fair. Durkin was not only a labor leader. He was a Democrat who voted against me. If it didn't turn out right, at least I tried."

Tremendous Limitations

But the selection of a union leader for the job—Durkin is president of the AFL's plumbers and steamfitters—is far from a guarantee of sunny days ahead in the troubled field of labor.

The secretary of labor has importance, of course. He heads the Department of Labor and is a member of the Cabinet. But his is a job with tremendous limitations.

Congress gave the Labor Department, and there for the secretary, the task of administering the Wage-Hour Act, the public employment offices, the whole operation of the labor standards and statistics, and some other chores.

No Say At All Here

But the secretary has no control over the government's mediation service, which was created to try to settle labor-management disputes peacefully. The service used to be part of the Labor Department but Congress took that away.

And the secretary has no say at all over the most vital government problem and responsibility in the whole field of labor-management relations: how the two sides get along, or fail to under the basic labor law, the Taft-Hartley Act. Congress gave that job to the National Labor Relations Board.

Opposed NLRB Plan

In fact, the Democratic congress which created the first basic labor law—the Wagner Act, predecessor of Taft-Hartley—set up the NLRB to administer the act. And when the Republican Congress in 1947 substituted T-H for the Wagner Act, it retained the NLRB, keeping the secretary at arm's length. Those who knew Durkin during those hectic 1935 days, when Congress was putting the Wagner Act together, say he opposed handing the job to the NLRB. If he still thinks the idea is wrong, and tries to get Congress to change its mind, he'll probably wind up nowhere fast.

SPEED is the enemy

If you could choose—

If you could choose priceless gifts for your family— wouldn't you choose safety and happiness?

Yet scores of drivers risk that safety and happiness by driving at excessive speeds. They court death and injury on the highways by stepping too hard on the accelerator. DECEMBER IS THE PEAK MONTH FOR TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS. SPEED IS THE PEAK REASON. More hours of darkness... wet and icy roads... overcast daylight weather... Christmas shopping and holiday traffic—all these mean that you have to reduce speed.

Pennsylvania, more than ever before, is determined to reduce the toll of lives taken by SPEED ON OUR HIGHWAYS—PUBLIC ENEMY NUMBER ONE.

That would be a precious Christmas gift to the State's 10 million citizens.

YOU CAN COOPERATE WITH US BY FOLLOWING THE BEST TRAFFIC RULE OF ALL—THE GOLDEN RULE. TAKE TIME TO HAVE A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

TAFT ATTACKS SELECTION OF MARTIN DURKIN

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft Tuesday called the selection of Martin Durkin, a Democrat, as secretary of labor "an incredible appointment" by President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Sen. Taft, who campaigned for Eisenhower after losing the GOP nomination to him, said in a prepared statement:

"The appointment of Mr. Durkin is an incredible appointment. This is no reflection on the character or ability of Mr. Durkin. I had a number of talks with Mr. (Herbert) Brownell who has been the key man in Cabinet appointments, and made several recommendations of qualified men.

Called Truman Democrat
"It was never even suggested that a man would be appointed who has always been a partisan Truman Democrat, who fought Gen. Eisenhower's election, and advocated the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law.

"It is an affront to millions of union members and officers who had the courage to defy the edict of officials like Mr. Durkin that they vote for Stevenson. This appointment leaves without representation in the Cabinet those millions of Democrats, North and South, who left the party to support Gen. Eisenhower, and gives representation to their most bitter opponents."

The statement immediately brought to question Taft's future political relationship with Gen. Eisenhower.

No Taft Men
Only a few days ago, Taft remarked that the general's choices for Cabinet posts had not included anyone he had recommended.

The senator had gone all out for Eisenhower's election after his own defeat in the GOP convention, making speeches in many states.

One of the things the Republicans fought during the campaign was the declaration by President Truman and others that Eisenhower was more or less under control of Taft.

U.N. ECONOMIST OUGHT TO BE FIRED; O'CONOR

NEW YORK (AP)—An International Monetary Fund economist's refusal to say whether he ever was a Communist or anti-American spy has stirred Sen. Herbert R. O'Connor (D-Md.) to demand his immediate dismissal.

O'Connor angrily called for the ouster of Frank Coe, American-born secretary of the fund, as the Senate internal security subcommittee resumed hearings here yesterday. It is probing alleged American Communists in the United Nations and U. N. specialized agencies.

Six more of the fund's employees have been subpoenaed for the public hearings which continue today and tomorrow.

Was Denied Passport

Coe, himself, revealed in testimony yesterday that the State Department had denied a passport to him last year as a poor security risk and that Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder only a month ago had asked the head of the fund to fire Coe from his $20,000-a-year position.

A spokesman at the fund's headquarters in Washington said after a meeting on Monday with the fund's managing director, Ivar Rooth of Sweden, that there would be "no comment yet" on Coe's testimony.

The fund is one of several specialized agencies having contractual relations with the U. N., which has no authority over the fund's personnel. The fund does its own hiring and firing.

Steadily Refused

Coe, 45, was the only witness on Monday. Time after time he refused to answer the subcommittee's questions on the constitutional grounds of possible self-incrimination.

He had been named in 1948 as

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House has announced a plan for keeping standard radio stations on the air during any air raids—thus maintaining a vital communication link with the public—and at the same time using their beams to confuse enemy bombing missions.

The novel master plan, which goes into effect in three months, is in sharp contrast to the World War II policy of silencing all broadcasting during any such emergencies.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII Tuesday ordered dress modifications that will cut an estimated $1,000 in the cost of a cardinal's wardrobe.

Hitherto the cost for such a wardrobe—which includes about 40 pieces of clothing—has been estimated at slightly more than $3,000.

Fairless Reveals How U.S. Has Imposed Excessive Taxes On Business And People Of Nation

Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of the Board and president of the United States Steel Corporation, recently addressed the Atlanta (Georgia) Chamber of Commerce. He stressed the heavy burden of taxes on business as well as upon individuals. So interesting and so all-inclusive of the important subject of taxation was it that it was felt that the readers of The Gettysburg Times would enjoy reading a good portion of the speech. The editor.

"Since the end of World War II, more than half of all the profits which American industry has earned have been plowed back into the business to support its growth; for growth is as essential to enterprise as it is to humans — particularly in infancy. That is why the mortality rate among new businesses is so enormous. Most of these establishments die in the early years of their lives, because they have not been able to earn the profit they needed to grow on.

"Thus we may say that profits are the food which supports the life and growth of our business population, just as wages provide the food which nourishes our human population. And if too much of that economic food is taxed away, those populations will sicken and wither from malnutrition.

"So with these simple and very elementary facts in mind, let us look for a moment at our present business taxes.

"The Government levies a normal tax of 30 per cent on our very smallest businesses — on establishments with taxable incomes up to $25,000. On businesses with larger earnings it levies a sur-tax which brings the rate up to 52 per cent. Then, under present law, it also imposes a so-called 'excess profits tax' of 82 per cent on business growth.

"If a business grows—if it increases its efficiency, its production, and its service to the nation — the Government says: 'That's just too bad. It'll cost you a penalty of 82 per cent.'

"And if a business does not grow — if its earnings are just what they averaged several years ago — it still must pay the Government that 82 per cent penalty tax on one-sixth of its normal, peacetime profits.

"So I submit that the so-called excess profits tax is a destructive tax, dishonestly named. It is not — as its name implies — a tax upon excessive profits. It is an excessive tax upon normal profits, on business efficiency, on industrial growth, and on public service!

"Now our Government has got to collect taxes, of course, and business ought properly to pay its fair share of those taxes, but let us remember that Government does none of the work, provides none of the tools, takes none of the risks, and stands none of the losses.

"So it seems to me that when Government takes 30 per cent of the earnings of a $25,000 business it is laying a very large tax on a very small enterprise — a tax which may prevent growth, destroy the business, and discourage others from going into business at all.

Heavy Tax On Earnings

"That in itself is dangerous enough. But when the Government takes 52 per cent of your earnings, then my friends, I contend that it is no longer taxing you — it is muscling in on your business; and when it starts to raise the ante to 82 per cent, it is no longer muscling in on your business — it is squeezing you out completely!

"My colleague, who is Chairman of our Finance Committee at U.S. Steel, has put it this way. He says:

"Suppose you wanted to hire a field hand to pick cotton, and suppose you offered to pay him $1.00 for the first hundred pounds that he picked, 70 cents for the next hundred pounds, 48 cents for the third hundred and 18 cents for the fourth. How much cotton would he pick, and how much of your crop would ever get to market?"

"Yet that is exactly the way our present tax structure operates on our business system. The more we produce, the smaller the incentive to do so, and this at a time when industrial expansion and increased production are vital national necessities. I just don't believe it makes sense!

"All Right So Far"

"Now I realize perfectly well that the gentlemen who defend and support the present fiscal policies of our Government will accuse me of crying 'wolf.' They will argue that business is booming, and to prove it, they will cite some of the very statistics which I myself have used earlier in these remarks to show the explosive growth of industry in the South and the rapid increase in the per-capita income of the people. They will say: 'What is he kicking about? Business is doing swell.'

"Well, I am an amiable man and quite willing to agree, as Congressmen Hugh Scott puts it, that we never had it so good, before taxes. But whenever someone defends our fiscal policies on the ground that they have not yet reduced us to a state of total bankruptcy, I can't help thinking of the group of paratroopers who were taken aloft for their first practice jump.

"All of them got away in good shape except the very last man to leave the plane. His parachute failed to open and he went whizzing down past his companions at a terrific rate of speed. As he did so, one of his buddies saw him and called out:

"Howya' doing, Al?"

"Well," said Al, "I'm all right so far."

size of that tax is the most precious top-secret in Washington today, and it has been guarded — I regret to say — with considerably more success than the secret of the atom bomb.

"I wonder, for example, what the customers of U.S. Steel would think if I told them that the total tax which our Company collected from them last year and turned over to various agencies of government, was so large that it would cover the entire cost of running Congress and the Federal Courts as well. That includes all the salaries and all the expenses of all the members of Congress, all the Federal judges, all their clerks, assistants, secretaries and stenographers, plus all their office bills, their travel, and — in short — the works.

Seven Times Larger

"Would that surprise our customers? Well, if so, the real facts would shock them utterly; for the truth is that the total tax of U.S. Steel last year was seven times that large; yet we are only one among thousands of businesses who collected taxes from those who brought our steel last year.

"Today the American people are paying more money in taxes than they pay for all their food and shelter combined. Government takes one-third of every dollar that the average American makes. But that average American pays only a fraction of his tax directly to the Government itself. The rest of the tax is hidden in the price we charge him for the things he buys from us. So he rebels not against taxes, but against high prices, and he holds business — not government — responsible.

"But if every business in this country could bill its customers separately for the taxes which it — as the unpaid agent of government — is forced to collect from them — and if those taxes were shown clearly on every bill of sale, all along the line of production, so that their total could be plainly marked on the price tag of the finished article where the buyer himself could see it — then, for the first time, the American housewife would know exactly where to place the blame, and she would do so with an emphasis and vigor that the most callous of our Government spenders could never ignore.

Expose Hidden Tax

"Whether it would ever be possible, as a practical matter, to establish such a system of billing, I do not know; but I do know that unless and until we can somehow expose these hidden taxes, American business will remain at the mercy of every demagogue in this land who talks dishonestly of 'profits before taxes' and who thus convinces millions of our citizens that the revenues that we collect from them, under Government compulsion, go into our own pockets.

"Truly, the power to tax is the power to destroy; and as long as we permit that power to be used in this deceptive fashion, it can — and will — destroy us.

"So in my humble, but considered, judgment, our Federal taxes today — because of their size, because of their incentive-killing design, and because of the deceptive way in which they are applied — stand as a kind of triple threat to the future of the South and to the future of America. Nor will this threat ever subside, I believe, until the American people themselves rise up in all the majesty of their righteous, democratic wrath, to force economies in government.

"Real economy can never be achieved in Washington by the effort of Congress alone. It cannot be accomplished by hacking splinters off the edges of an Executive budget that is wasteful to the core; for real economy is not merely a legislative act — it is a state of mind.

Stop Bureaucratic Power

"It is a state of mind which is firmly determined to stop — here and now — this endless bureaucratic desire to extend the power and authority of the Federal Government ever further over the lives of our people. It is a devout and patriotic willingness to restore to our Sovereign States and to our local communities, those rights and those responsibilities which were entrusted to them in the first place by our Founding Fathers when they wrote the Constitution.

"And until that state of mind prevails at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, my friends, there will be no room for real economy in Washington.

"We are told, of course, that no more economies are possible without endangering our national defense program. But that is not true. If we leave defense out of the picture entirely, and if we look only at the wholly-non-defense expenses of our Government we shall find this:

"That purely civilian expenditures of Government, those that have no true connection whatever with defense, have increased by more than 400 per cent in the past 20 years; but during this same period the cost of living has gone up less than 95 per cent.

Wide Price Controls

"That means that the American people today are paying a little less than twice as much as they formerly did for the goods and services which they buy, voluntarily, from private enterprise; but the price of the purely civilian services which they are forced to buy from Government, whether they want them or not, is more than five times as high as it used to be.

"This present bureaucratic passion for controlling prices does not extend to the price of government itself!

"Now we are also told, of course,

SAYS CANADIAN FIRM OFFERED $835,000 BRIBE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department declines to discuss a case in which a Canadian company reportedly agreed to pay about $835,000 to former Asst. Secy. of Defense Paul H. Griffith and an associate to promote a U. S. government contract.

Jess Larson, head of the General Services Administration (GSA), told a reporter Monday he turned over investigation files to the Justice Department. Officials there refused to talk about it "in any way."

Larson said GSA, the government's "housecleaning agency," conducted the investigation. He said it produced evidence that Silver Miller Mines, Ltd., of Toronto, agreed to pay Griffith and Maxwell Brown about $835,000.

The money, Larson said, was for promoting a contract under which the U. S. government would buy cobalt, a strategic metal used in making steel, from the Canadian firm. Investigators' evidence shows the two men received $210,000, with $625,000 still owed, Larson said.

None Will Comment

There was no comment from Griffith or Brown or, in Toronto, from the Silver Miller Mines. Griffith, a native of Uniontown, Pa., and former national commander of the American Legion, is now a public relations adviser in Washington. He was assistant defense secretary under Secretary Louis Johnson.

Larson said the U. S. government has not advanced any money yet and there has been no delivery of cobalt but the original contract is still in effect, so far as GSA knows.

An estimated $5,840,000 is to be paid over a four-year period for four million pounds of cobalt, Larson said.

The purchase price, he said, was approved by the Canadian government and is in line with its program to encourage expansion of cobalt production.

TV AUDIENCE IS TAKEN INTO DELIVERY ROOM

DENVER (AP)—The baby born in view of television witnesses last night a boy—Gordon Campbell Kerr by name—weighing in at 5 pounds 7 ounces, and mother and son are "doing fine."

It was a dramatic and history-making event, this first telecast of a human birth. Tiny Gordon became the youngest TV star to date, a record unlikely to be broken.

Millions of Americans were brought into a hospital delivery room to see Gordon seconds after he was born. The broadcast was carried on a nation-wide network. Some Western cities will see it on film after this month.

Third Child That Way

The baby was delivered by Caesarean operation, taken by surgery from his mother, Mrs. Lillian Kerr, 38.

John R. Kerr, 35, the father and an Army sergeant, was looking at a TV screen in the hospital, confessing he was "as nervous as any father would be." Gordon is the Kerrs' third child, and second boy, all born by Caesarean operation.

First, the TV audience saw doctors preparing for the operation. There came a loud rumbling sound. This was the heart beat of the yet-unborn Gordon, magnified through a stethoscope placed over his mother's abdomen.

The camera flicked elsewhere, to show modern care of premature babies. A few minutes later, it brought watchers back to the delivery room of the Colorado General Hospital of the University of Colorado Medical School.

A doctor was lifting Gordon, backside view, taken from his mother's womb, as another physician severed the umbilical cord. Actually, the surgery had taken but one minute.

Gordon was carried to a nearby table, swathed in warmth-preserving blankets, then given the ministrations of skilled medicine customary for every baby. Suction devices drew mucus from his mouth and nose, and Gordon began to live in a new strange world of atmosphere.

His little lungs drew in life-giving oxygen, and then came his faint cries, the way a baby starts to live in this world of air.

Quickly, doctors clamped the stub of the umbilical cord. Into his eyes went drops of silver nitrate, the usual protection against infection of our windows upon the world.

The telecast was sponsored by Smith, Kline and French, Philadelphia pharmaceutical firm, in co-operation with the American Medical Association, holding its sixth annual clinical session here.

STEVENSON AND TRUMAN CONFER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson and Harry S. Truman meet in the White House today to sift the past of the Democratic party in search of its future.

The accent will be on the future but uppermost in the two-day talks between the President and the man he tried hard to make his successor will be the question:

What happened in the Democratic party in the 1952 election which Republican presidential nominee Dwight Eisenhower won by a landslide?

Stevenson, governor of Illinois and defeated Democratic candidate for president, is flying to Washington from Atlantic City, N. J., after attending memorial services for the late CIO President Philip Murray.

The Truman-Stevenson meeting almost certainly will help define just what role Stevenson will play in the Democratic party's future.

INDIA'S PLAN TO GET FINAL U.N. APPROVAL

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—India's plan for bringing peace to Korea leads for final approval today by the full U. N. General Assembly. Once okayed it will be sent on for an already promised rejection by the Chinese and North Korean Reds.

The Assembly at its plenary session this afternoon was expected to give the Indian resolution the same overwhelming endorsement it received Monday over bitter Soviet bloc opposition in the Political Committee.

53 In Solid Bloc The committee, exhausted by more than a month of heated argument on Korea, brought 53 Western and neutral countries together in a solid bloc to approve India's compromise prisoner of war plan over five negative Soviet bloc votes and an abstention by Nationalist China.

Delegates expected the vote to be identical in the Assembly, following a brief debate. Further fireworks were not expected, since the Assembly action is merely a formality and speakers usually are required to limit their arguments to from five to seven minutes.

The amended Indian resolution calls for a four-power commission and a fifth-power umpire to handle the repatriation of all prisoners on the Western principle that they will not be forced to return home if they don't want to, and provides for the U. N. to take over all those who remain behind if their fate hasn't been settled in four months.

JAYCEES WILL SPONSOR LIGHTS FOR CHRISTMAS

The community Christmas lighting and decorating contest will be sponsored again this year by the Littlestown Junior Chamber of Commerce and final plans were made for the contest at the first December meeting of the Jaycees, held on Monday evening at Schotzie's Hotel.

The type of decorating will be classified in three different groups as in previous years. The classifications and cash awards being offered are as follows: Decorating the entire house, $25, $15 and $10; decorating of windows and doorways, $15, $10 and $7.50; special features, $15, $10 and $7.50. The date of judging has been set for Friday, December 26. All local residents are invited to enter the contest and entry blanks will be distributed throughout the community in the near future. The committee in charge of arrangements for the decorating is composed of J. Robert Sell, Ray T. Harner, Robert H. Miller and Samuel Snyder.

The meeting on Monday was presided over by the president, Robert H. Miller. The secretary, Charles E. Rabenstein, gave his report. Preliminary plans were made for the annual Christmas party for the Jaycees and their families. A committee was appointed to be in charge for the party, to be held on a future date to be announced. The party committee consists of Clinton O. Sentz, Clyde W. Crouse and John J. Way. The next regular meeting of the Jaycees will be held Monday, Dec. 15, 7:30 p.m.

Past Grands To Meet Melvin A. Miller, Littlestown, president of the Adams County Past Grands association, has announced that the December meeting of the organization will be held Thursday evening, December 11, with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, York Springs, as the host group.

A covered dish supper and Christmas party will be held in conjunction with the monthly meeting of the Ever Willing Sunday School class of St. John's Lutheran Church on Tuesday, December 9, 6 p.m., in the social hall of the church. Each member is requested to

RED FORCES IN EAST GERMANY EXCEED 100,000

LONDON (AP)—Britain said Monday night that Communist East Germany's armed forces have more than doubled in size in the last six months. She warned her European Allies to settle their differences and speed the rearmament of Western Germany to counter the increase in Red strength.

A press statement issued by the Foreign Office gave details of the development of the East German "People's Police" (Bereitschaften) and said the force was well-organized, armed with modern weapons and closely supervised by Soviet officers.

Until recently the force was estimated to be about 55,000 strong, the Foreign Office said, but according to evidence reaching Britain in recent weeks more than 100,000 East Germans are now under arms.

The statement said this force is now equipped with Soviet tanks, self-propelled guns, howitzers and anti-aircraft artillery.

Want 500,000 Force
The three arms of the force include a high proportion of officers to serve as a nucleus for rapid expansion.

Permanent Honor Roll Is Ordered

Judge W. C. Sheely has signed an order directing the prothonotary of Cumberland County to make a permanent honor roll record of the members of the bar association who served in World Wars I and II and file it in the prothonotary's office.

The petition, asking that a permanent record be made and kept in the prothonotary's office, was signed by Robert L. Myers Jr., of the bar association.

pansion if the present coercive methods of recruitment are intensified, the statement declared.

"There can be no doubt that final decisions by all countries concerned on the West German defense contribution are a matter of growing urgency in view of increasing East German rearmament as an addition to the military strength of the Soviet bloc," the Foreign Office observed.

The Atlantic allies have agreed to set up a European Army with 500,000 German troops in it but as yet neither France, which sponsored the idea, nor West Germany have ratified the plan. The other countries whose troops would be merged in the army are Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

GROWING CROPS FOR MULCHING

More and more as the perils of recurrent droughts make inroads on vegetable and small fruit crops, farmers and gardeners are discovering the merits of summer mulching as a direct means of conserving soil moisture and at the same time eliminating the cost and labor of cultivating to eradicate weeds and grass. Too, mulching is often necessary over winter for protective purposes, especially for strawberries. Where and how to obtain an adequate and inexpensive supply of suitable mulching material are problems which individual growers may quite easily solve. The most urgent route for mulching and how to grow special mulch crops are matters demanding serious consideration.

Almost all vegetables permit summer mulching. But particularly are raspberries, blackberries, dewberries, strawberries, carrots, potatoes, beets, cucumbers, melons, cabbage and many other row crops benefited. In seasons of prolonged drought orchardists find liberally mulched apple, pear, peach, cherry and plum trees producing more and better fruits. With strawberries the mulch not only conserves soil moisture but protects the fruits from contamination of splashing soils from rain. In all cases summer mulching attracts the feeder roots of plants into the richer surface soils where the action of beneficial bacteria stimulates more vigorous growth.

Shredded corn stalks make excellent summer mulching material. Bagasse from sorghum molasses making is another good material. We know of a strawberry grower who increases his sorghum acreage in proportion to his expansion of strawberry acreage and finds both crops — strawberries and sorghum molasses — excellent early and late revenue sources.

But in all these cases, including available wheat straw, the supply of mulching materials is usually insufficient to meet summer and winter mulching needs. There must be a more liberal source devised. Fortunately this is not a difficult problem.

One of the best forms of winter mulching material, a type that does not pack down and become sodden, is Sudan grass hay. Because this is an annual grass, seed can be sown in May after the soil is warm or even as late as mid-July and at least two and as many as four cuttings for hay obtained before frost arrives. In fact, to make the best grade of mulch Sudan grass should be cut and cured before the stems become coarse and woody. This leads to additional cuttings. And too, Sudan grass may be grazed when ever livestock needs extra pasturage.

The hay for mulching should be well cured and stacked. If a large supply is planned, two or more small stacks will prove superior to one large stack.

Mulching material applied for summer purposes may be left over winter and, if the crop is perennial like strawberries, an additional application can be made the next spring. The older vegetation gradually decays to increase the soil's organic matter supply.

Marsh hay makes a high quality winter mulch. Weeds cut before they mature their seeds may be utilized for this purpose.

Aggressive gardeners and truck crop farmers may sow winter rye any time from late August until mid-October for a ground cover over winter and cut and cure the top growth the following spring to utilize the hay for summer mulching. The same is true of wheat. Of course, cover rye is usually used with more profit to turn under for soil improvement.

FORCING RHUBARB INDOORS

Rhubarb is so easy to store for all-winter consumption by quick-freezing and canning that many need be without ample supplies of this exceptionally healthful vegetable every week in the year. But for gardeners who lack freezing facilities or those who neglected to can an adequate supply last spring, winter forcing is a simple, inexpensive and highly productive practice. All that is needed are a vigorous clump or two of established rhubarb and a dark, moist, medium cool cellar.

Growers who have attempted to force rhubarb indoors over winter and failed usually find that they have neglected the one most important step in the process — allowing the clump roots to freeze before bringing them indoors. Unless such freezing occurs, little or no subsequent growth of edible stalks will be possible. It is the freezing that renders the roots thoroughly dormant, the explanation of why rhubarb cannot be grown successfully in the deep South.

When cold weather arrives or nears, an old clump or two of vigorous rhubarb should be taken up by the roots with a large mass of adhering soil. The soil should then be soaked and the entire mass allowed to freeze. Close attention to weather reports should enable the prospective grower to choose a proper time for digging, wetting and exposing the clumps. Of course, the roots should not be exposed to sun or wind while awaiting the freezing.

After the root mass is frozen solidly, move the clumps at once to a dark cellar where a uniform temperature in the upper 50s can be maintained all the time. The air must be moist and the room dark. Here on the floor is placed a layer of sifted coal ashes or a mixture of ashes and sand and on this base the rhubarb roots are placed and filled around to their normal growing depth with a mixture of sand and soil or ashes and sand. The planting should be done as if it was in the garden for permanent growing. Watering is necessary to settle the soil.

Because an edible stalk of rhubarb is approximately 95 per cent water, the moisture supply must be uniform and liberal. A mist spray may be employed to keep the foliage moist and a long-spouted watering can be used to irrigate the soil around the roots. Under temperature and general maintenance conditions here advised, rhubarb clumps should produce their first edible stalks in 30 to 35 days after they are brought indoors. Thereafter, with care continued as suggested, clumps should bear steadily until outdoor rhubarb is available again.

Experience proves that roots three to seven years old bear more liberally than extremely old or young roots. However, there need be no hesitancy to force roots older than this limit so long as the clumps are thrifty.

Two additional facts merit noting. First, unless the cellar is kept dark, stalks will be crooked and short and the plant will waste most of its strength in bearing leaves instead of stalks. Second, after service indoors ends the roots may be returned to their regular or another outdoor site and fed liberally to restore them to normal productivity.

EFFECTIVE WAR ON MEALYBUGS

Mealybugs are actually small sap-sucking insects belonging to the general aphid family but having the additional feature of a white, waxy upholstery that serves as a body armor to protect them from enemies and particularly from insecticidal sprays. And although they are comparatively easy to detect and control, yet they cause considerable confusion and trouble to house plant growers who have not learned to identify them on sight.

There are numerous species of mealybugs. All are characterized by the fluffy white coat and their common habit of feeding along the veins on the under sides of leaves and on the tender stems of most plants. The young or nymphs resemble the adults except they do not have the cottony coats. Eggs are laid in whitish masses which may be mistaken for mildew or mold. Some species give birth directly to living young. Those common to indoor plants and many outdoor ornamentals and vegetables in this latitude hatch from eggs laid by the female adult, usually in visible masses on the plants. One female may deposit as many as 400 eggs, hence the rate of multiplication is rapid unless combat measures are prompt and effective.

In addition to direct damage mealybugs cause by sucking sap from plant tissues, they excrete a sticky substance known as honeydew. This may accumulate soot and dust and thereby render plants unsightly or it may develop a dark mold. Outdoor ants relish honeydew and in return for it they often carry mealybugs from plant and defend colonies in much the same manner and for a similar purpose that man maintains milk cows.

No house plant may be considered immune to mealybug attacks. However, gardenias, coleus, lantana and other fleshy-leaved ornamentals are more likely to be infested. The most important key to mealybug control lies in frequent and careful inspection to detect the pests before they have seriously weakened plants and especially before they become numerous. The same advice applies to the safety of plants from white flies and plant lice.

In most cases an application of nicotine sulphate in soapy water will kill mealybugs if the spray is directed to cover their bodies. On this point too much emphasis cannot be placed on the fact that merely coating the plant is worthless. Only by direct contact with the insect's body does this or any other insecticide applied to control sap-sucking pests prove effective. Herein is the reason why these are called "contact" poisons. Black Leaf 40 at the rate of 1 to 1½ teaspoonfuls to one gallon of water in which a 1-inch cube of ordinary laundry soap or two tablespoonfuls of soap flakes has been dissolved is recommended.

Immediately after an infested plant is sprayed it should be covered snugly with an unbroken cone of paper or with oilcloth placed over a suitable temporary frame to hold the nicotine fumes among the leaves for 6 to 12 hours or slightly longer. If any mealybugs survive, the treatment should be repeated. Nicotine sulphate is most effective when applied in rooms where the temperature is above 70 degrees.

Outdoors mealybugs can scarcely be avoided because, as already mentioned, they are carried to plants by ants. Too, eggs are often transferred in soil. But no plant grower, indoor or outdoor, need entertain the pests, long. Careful and frequent inspection plus prompt combat are the twin weapons of complete control.
